

ABSTRACT

An electrode for the excision of a circular segment of an entire cervical canal. The electrode has a parallel wire, at one end, which can be rotated 360 degrees. This enables a single instrument to remove an entire cervical canal, instead of using different sized instruments.